In-house self-revising translators and revisers for Albanian – English (both directions)
for the Kosovo Specialist Chambers located in The Hague, The Netherlands

Reference: KSCR/PROC/2020-2021/0546

Background

Translation services play a vital role in the multilingual setting of the Kosovo Specialist Chambers (KSC). As a criminal court whose core business is conducted in three official languages (English, Albanian, Serbian), the KSC requires language services of the highest quality. The obligation to guarantee the fundamental rights and freedoms of the accused, as enshrined in international human rights instruments and national legislation, and the need to protect the rights of victims and witnesses, mean that the KSC must provide language services in line with the highest standards of the profession which are endorsed by all international courts and organisations. In order to be able to deal with fundamental matters before the court, including ultimate ruling on guilt and innocence, all parties must be secure in the knowledge that the highly technical legal and evidentiary material used in the proceedings is accurately and completely conveyed in all languages.

Overall objective of this Call for Expression of Interest

The overall objective of this Call for Expression of Interest is to identify conference-level translators who are able to assist in translating and revising the documentary material for the KSC judicial proceedings. KSC seeks to roster applicants who have the required expertise in the English-Albanian language combination, with these languages at the A or B level. Selected applicants will be given a translation or revision assignments to be performed inside KSC premises and must ensure confidentiality in all aspects of the work assigned to them. All technical and logistical arrangements required for the performance of assignments will be provided and coordinated by the Language Services Unit of the KSC.

Location

KSC premises in The Hague, The Netherlands.

Eligibility

Participation in this Call for Expression of Interest is open on equal terms and without restrictions to all freelance translators who possess the required qualifications and experience in the language profile sought. It is important to note that any future individual contracts will only be concluded between the KSC and successful freelance translators directly and 'in name', whether as a natural person, or as owner/director of her/his own company. No contracts shall be concluded with translation services companies for provision of multiple Translators or translation services.

Competences and qualifications

The applicants must be in possession of a university degree in any subject, at minimum at the Bachelor level.

Professional experience

The applicants must have:

plus

- At least 100 days (or 150,000 words) of conference-level interpretation, translation or revision work after being engaged by language services of one of the international courts or international organisations, attested by certificates or contracts.

In case of an insufficient number of identified professionals who meet the above criteria, the KSC may exceptionally consider to include on the roster applicants who do not satisfy such criteria on condition that they can document 5 years of translation/revision experience and pass a test administered by the KSC Language Services Unit.

Evaluation and selection of applications

Applicants will be initially preselected in accordance with their qualifications and demonstrated experience. All preselected applicants will then be required to undergo the KSC's security vetting process, the standards of which are commensurate with the confidential and sensitive nature of the KSC mandate. Failure to meet such security standards will result in the application being rejected without further consideration of its merits and suitability.

Entry into a negotiated procedure with the KSC

Successful applicants will be invited to submit a bid proposal in response to a tender procedure, which is the method chosen by the KSC to create its roster of self-revising translators and revisers. Applicants included in this roster will be awarded a multiple-year framework contract. Admission into the roster and award of a framework contract does not imply a right to receive assignments and does not carry any expectancy of conversion to any other type of contract with the KSC.
